Extending Summer Excursion Rates.

loze. Weber played chess with Dr. Gladding last night until 12 o'clock after which he went to bed and rested well until 7 this morning, when he arose and ate a hearty breakfast. When Acting Warden Cochran told him that his time was getting short, he replied: "Never mind my time; it isn't worrying me."

Following his first message to his attorney at Sacramento, Weber wired: "Prevent execution on insanity plea, anything."

Rev. J. T. Wills of Sacramento and Rev. Thomas Fairbanks called at 10:35 o'clock. Weber first refused to see them, but afterward consented to talk with them for several minutes.

Weber waived the reading of the death warrant and went to the gallows without making a statement. He was very nervous as he mounted the gallows and surveyed the crowd, but said nothing. The trap was sprung at 12:26 p. m. and he was pronounced dead 14 minutes later.

Weber was accused of having killed his father, mother, brother and sister, at Auburn, California, and setting fire to the house. The extinguishing of the flames revealed the crime.
